No. 2632 — 1 1/2 x 8 1/2 in. .... $2.10

Essentially an American invention, the Daylo has taken a first place in the necessities of the modern home, and it is really the handiest thing imaginable. Always in readiness for that time when you long for a little light and a quick light in unusual or unhandy places. For that trip over to the neighbors when it seems so dark out-of-doors, for that extra bucket of coal that you find you need when you come home late at night, and for that search in the garret or the store room for those magazines you put away last Spring. Just a touch on the button and there's the clock when you are wondering if it isn't about time to get up. Or maybe the covers are off the baby, or your old tooth gets troubling to beat the band and you need just one look inside the medicine case to see where the tooth-ache drops are—there are dozens of times when a Daylo is almost indispensable between sunset and sunrise, and they are priced so reasonably too.

E. E. AMOUR Accepts the Republican Nomination and Announces his Candidacy for County Attorney

TO THE CITIZENS OF MOHAVE COUNTY:

The Republican Party having nominated me for County Attorney, it appears in place to express my appreciation of the honor, and to advise the voters generally of its acceptance. Although with the minority, the spirit of the times especially encourages me to solicit your serious consideration of my candidacy. Mr. Wilson—everybody's President except the Kaiser—has said that "Politics is adjourned till the war is won." The wholesome policy of non-partisanship has characterized his great administration. Many and notable are the men and women called by him from all classes and parties to aid in his masterly conduct of the war. His wise and illustrious example in this regard, as well as in other, may not prove amiss in the smaller responsibilities devolving upon you, and will no doubt receive your careful thought in this campaign.

The office of County Attorney is of much importance. It can materially safeguard the public against wrongdoing; and in cooperation with the Courts and their officers, as Sheriff and the like, no community need be seriously afflicted by vice or crime.

I favor strict observance and enforcement of the law in all respects. When public morals are involved, its violation demands, and should have, special and rigid treatment. Intemperance and its kindred and resultant vices are always fruitful of other kinds of evil-doing, and should be wiped out, to insure order, decency, and safety, which are the desire and pride of all good citizens, and invaluable blessings alike of the good and the bad. It is therefore imperative that this County and State be made and kept dry in fact as well as in name. The judicious institution of cases and their vigorous prosecution lessen crime and promote economy. The certain consequence of such course is public and private well-being. The highest concern of a Prosecutor should be to demonstrate the truth of these principles.

I desire you to know and consider such qualifications as I possess, and to this end I think it proper to say that my experience as Assistant Prosecutor, County Judge, District Judge, and otherwise should enable you to judge somewhat of my fitness.

I am a permanent resident of Mohave County, with substantial property interests therein, and am here for the homestead, to do what I can legitimately for myself, and for you, individually and as a community. Your confidence and support will be greatly valued, and if I am elected, shall command my best efforts to serve you faithfully and well. Strict attention to official duty, and the devotion of what abilities I have to its proper discharge,—tempered with just consideration for the rights of all under the law—shall be my aim and endeavor. To say more will add nothing to the conscientious purpose of this letter.

I have the honor to be

Sincerely and respectfully yours,

E. E. AMOUR.

September 21, 1918, Kingman, Arizona.
